

Letter

We have wonderful news about our book “Holz Bau Timber Architecture in the Early Modern Period of Germany” .

The book was selected as the ten winners of the DAM (Deutsches Architekturmuseum) Architectural Book Award 2020. (<https://dam-online.de/en/program/architecture-prizes/dam-architectural-book-award/>)

This award judges the content and design of the book comprehensively, and it selects the ten best architectural books around the world of that year.

We would like to thank the authors and designer of the book, the Union Foundation who granted us the fund to realise the research, all the people we met during our research in Germany, and everyone who has read our book.

As mentioned at the beginning of Holz Bau, we would continue presenting our research as part of the office’ s work.

We opened a new domain for small architectural offices like ours to present, not just design but also research as part of the office’ s work.

We are currently working on “Bau Kunst II” and other book projects, so please look forward to it.

We hope you would continue on being interested in GADEN Books and FT Architects work and projects.

October 19th, 2020

FT Architects

Katsuya Fukushima and Hiroko Tominaga